Notice of Petition for Rulemaking and Request for Comments: Exclusion of Gender Alterations From the Medical Benefits Package

Federal Register Notice Filed July 9, 2018

COMMENTS OF WHITMAN-WALKER HEALTH

Whitman-Walker Health (WWH or Whitman-Walker) submits these comments in response to the Department’s July 9, 2018 Notice and Request for Comments, 83 Fed. Reg. 31711. We urge the Department to grant the petition for ratemaking and modify its rules to provide coverage in its medical benefits package for all medically supported procedures that are indicated and needed to confirm a transgender veteran’s gender identity. Exclusion of medically supported gender-affirming surgery – or exclusion or restriction of any other gender-affirming procedure – is contrary to the scientific and medical consensus and unjust and discriminatory.

Interest and Expertise of Whitman-Walker Health

Whitman-Walker is a Federally Qualified Health Center serving greater Washington, DC’s diverse urban community, including individuals who face barriers to accessing care, and with a special expertise in HIV care and serving lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and questioning/queer (LGBTQ) populations. We empower all persons to live healthy, love openly, and achieve equality and inclusion. Our health center provides high quality, affirming health care to more than 20,000 individuals annually and is the medical home to more than 10,000 patients. The center has five sites and a team of more than 280 highly educated and practically experienced staff.

WWH services include primary medical care, HIV and LGBTQ specialty care, oral health, mental health care, addictions treatment services, psychosocial support, medical nutrition therapy, early intervention services, public benefits and insurance navigation, nurse-focused case management, HIV and STI screening, legal services, youth programs, and an onsite pharmacy. The health center has achieved Level 3 Patient Centered Medical Home accreditation with the National Committee for Quality Assurance.

Whitman-Walker has a robust portfolio of high-quality, holistic services to the transgender and gender-nonbinary community. Although most of our patients reside in the greater Washington, DC metropolitan area, we also provide services to transgender and gender-nonbinary individuals living throughout Maryland and Virginia, and in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Delaware. In calendar year 2017 we provided health care to more than 1,500 separate transgender and gender-nonbinary persons, and our Legal Services Department provided advice and representation to approximately 1,000 such individuals. Currently, our transgender and gender-nonbinary patients and clients number more than 2,000. Whitman-Walker also has a large and growing Research Department, which is participating in several studies that include or focus on transgender individuals.

Whitman-Walker health care providers are very experienced with assisting patients suffering from gender dysphoria to understand and evaluate their treatment options, and with evaluating patients for gender-affirming surgical procedures and providing recommendations for those for whom surgery is indicated. They also continue to work with numerous patients who have had surgeries. As documented in the attached Statement of Thomas Coughlin, WWH’s Director of Gender Affirming Services, and Stacey Karpen, Senior Manager of Behavioral Health, the experience of our providers overwhelmingly supports the importance of access to the full range of gender-affirming care, including surgery, for individuals suffering from gender dysphoria.
Response to Questions Posed by the Department

The Department’s Notice and Request for Comments posed three specific questions; Before addressing those questions, we note that the Department appears to rely on a February 2018 Department of Defense report, recommending against military service by transgender individuals, to cast doubt on the efficacy and cost of gender-transition-related surgery. That report has been thoroughly discredited by the American Medical Association and many other professional associations. There is no justification for the Defense Department’s discrimination against the many transgender persons who honorably serve in our armed forces, and the many more fully qualified individuals who wish to serve. In addition, the report provides no basis whatever to continue to exclude coverage of medically justified transition-related surgery desired by veterans – individuals who have previously served – and their families.

Whitman-Walker’s responses to the Department’s specific questions are set out below.

Question in the Notice: What evidence is available about the safety and effectiveness of gender alterations for the treatment of gender dysphoria and how reliable is that evidence?

Whitman-Walker’s response: As explained in the attached Statement of our Director of Gender-Affirming Services and our Senior Manager of Behavioral Health, the overwhelming experience of our providers and other staff who work closely with transgender patients and clients is that gender-transition-related care, including surgery, hormone therapy and mental health counseling, administered in accord with well-established guidelines of the World Professional Association of Transgender Health (WPATH) and the University of California San Francisco’s Center of Excellence in Transgender Health – is safe and effective in treating the gender dysphoria experienced by many individuals.
Question in the Notice: Given the challenge of the high rates of Veteran suicide, what does the evidence, including peer-reviewed evidence, suggest about the impact of gender alterations on the rates of suicide and suicide ideation among those suffering from gender dysphoria?

Whitman-Walker’s response: As Mr. Coughlin and Dr. Karpen explain in their attached Statement, gender dysphoria frequently manifests as severe depression and suicidal ideation and even suicide attempts. Gender-affirming treatment, including surgeries for a significant number of patients, dramatically improve mental health and lower suicide risk.

Question in the Notice: Given that any addition to the medical benefits package will have an associated cost and burden on existing specialists, especially urological and vascular surgeons and other highly trained specialists who are already in short supply nationwide, what is the potential impact of adding “gender alterations” on Veterans’ access to care, particularly for Veterans facing lifethreatening [sic] medical conditions waiting to see surgical specialists?

Whitman-Walker’s response: Respectfully, this question appears to be a red herring. Whitman-Walker cares for many individuals and families – including more than 10,000 patients who consider us their medical home. Our providers refer patients for many outside services, including surgeries, that are unrelated to gender transition or gender affirmation. There is no basis in our experience for any concern that increased access to gender-affirming surgery, for those who desire such treatment and for whom it is medically indicated, would have any meaningful impact on the availability of other needed care.
Conclusion

Whitman-Walker Health urges the Department to grant the petition for ratemaking and modify its rules to provide coverage in its medical benefits package for all medically supported procedures that are indicated and needed to confirm a transgender veteran’s gender identity.

If we can provide additional information or be of assistance in any other way, please contact me at dbruner@whitman-walker.org or (202) 939-7628.

Statement of Thomas Coughlin, LPC, NCC, and Stacey Karpen, PhD, LPC, NCC

Thomas Coughlin is Director of Gender-Affirming Services and a Psychotherapist, and Stacey Karpen is Senior Manager of Behavioral Health, at Whitman-Walker Health. Mr. Coughlin oversees Whitman-Walker’s internal and external programming related to services for the transgender and gender non-binary communities. Dr. Karpen manages the operations of Whitman-Walker’s Behavioral Health Department, and conducts psychological assessments of patients for gender-affirming surgeries. Both of us work directly as psychotherapists with Whitman-Walker patients, including individuals exploring their gender identity or seeking assistance to transition to their true gender identity. Our CVs are attached to this Statement.

As providers of gender-affirming services in Washington, DC, we have seen our transgender patient population grow from 200 patients to over 2,000. The increased visibility of the transgender population, their health needs and the very significant health disparities they suffer – exacerbated by widespread discrimination and stigma – have made gender-affirming care at Whitman-Walker Health a priority. Our Gender-Affirming Services Program meets the needs of the community in a safe and effective way for adults and youth, ages 13 and older.

Gender-affirming care at Whitman-Walker relies on protocols from the World Professional Association of Transgender Health (WPATH) and University of California, San Francisco – a national and international leader in gender-related health care – updated and streamlined to ensure equity in access and sensitivity in delivery. Since our patients are the experts of their own lived experiences, we look to them to get a better understanding of how to promote healthcare engagement and meet their needs. We continually collaborate and consult with members of the communities we serve to make sure we are meeting their diverse needs in a culturally appropriate way.

Access to gender-affirming surgeries is critical for many individuals suffering from gender dysphoria, and has enormous benefits for their mental and physical health. Coverage of such surgeries by insurance plans – including health plans available for veterans – is critical to access for many individuals for whom such procedures would otherwise be unaffordable. In 2014, the District of Columbia issued a regulation that all DC Medicaid plans, and private health plans subject to DC regulation, must be inclusive of gender affirming care. As understanding of transgender people has grown, many other health plans have dropped longstanding restrictions on transition-related surgery and other gender-affirming care. This has allowed Whitman Walker to better serve our most marginalized members of the community and at long last facilitate access to life-saving procedures which were beforehand only a dream to many. Over the past two years, we have supported over 500 patients with access to gender affirming surgeries. With primary care, mental health support, dental, public benefits and legal services, we have helped thousands of trans-identified individuals lead healthier, happier lives.

It is a challenge for transgender people to live in a society that sees them as second-class citizens or worse. The lack of narratives coming from the perspective of transgender youth and adults perpetuates discriminatory policies and practices that reduce the lives of transgender people to be only associated with pathology. As health care providers for this community, we are witness every day to the courage with which transgender individuals face systemic inequalities and the day-to-day judgement and hatred that persists. The argument that gender-affirming care, including surgery when medically indicated and desired by the patient, is unnecessary or cosmetic, invalidates the lived experiences of transgender adults and young people and condemns them to continued gender dysphoria that causes serious, and often acute, mental and physical harm. Moreover, singling them out for exclusion in health insurance plans reinforces the stigma that they experience. Prioritizing one person’s health over another is neither ethical nor moral. All of us deserve care and deserve to live a healthy life with dignity and respect.

At our health center, we see time and again how access to gender-affirming care, including surgery, enables individuals to not just survive, but to thrive. Oftentimes patients who have not had access to gender-affirming care experience serious mental and even physical health problems, including suicidal ideation and even suicide attempts, and need a higher level of services. As our patients begin to get what they need to live authentically, whether it be hormone therapy, gender-affirming surgery, counseling, or legal assistance, their need for services actually decreases over time. When one’s gender is affirmed, the acuity of gender dysphoria lessens and adults and young people are better able to engage in social and familial relationships and live healthy lives. Our patients’ reports of depression, anxiety, suicidal ideation, suicide attempts, drug and alcohol use, and other high-risk behaviors decrease as access to gender-affirming care increases. Patients receiving gender-affirming care are more likely to attend medical and mental health appointments and to engage in preventative healthcare. During our combined total 20 years of work in this field, we have observed a strong correlation between gender-affirming care, including surgery, and quality of life improvement and pro-health behaviors. Gender affirming care should not be viewed as anything less than critical and lifesaving. If we were to remove barriers to this care, enabling people to live their true lives, authentically, the reduction in health care costs would be substantial. We create the world that makes things worse for others and it costs us.

In addition, the argument that insurance coverage of gender-affirming surgeries will reduce access to services by non-transgender (cisgender) patients is incongruent to what we have witnessed at our health center. Whitman-Walker refers patients for many different surgical procedures, and we and our health care provider colleagues have seen no indication whatsoever to suspect that increased availability of gender-transition-related surgeries would affect the availability of urological, vascular, or other surgeries for other patients.
